

Vegucation

The first recognised vegetarian culinary education for professionals.

If you are interested in hearing more or in participating in the development of the curriculum, then visit us at www.vegucation.eu or write an email to info@vegucation.eu

Background

Vegetarianism has been booming like no other market. Alongside the growing number of vegetarians, over 50% of the population regularly chooses plant-based options. Customers expect vegetarian options to have the same high standards as the other dishes on the menu. Unfortunately, in classic cookery courses little attention is given to creative vegetarian cuisine.

Purpose

Vegucation is creating a modern vocational education on vegetarian cooking. Vegucation stands for plant-based cuisine and innovative learning for chefs and caterers during initial and continued training. Therefore a detailed curriculum, handbooks as well as interactive ICT contents are provided.

Target group

We invite all schools and other educational organisations that want to prepare their students for the rising demand for plant-based dishes either to implement VEGUCATION as an additional training or to integrate it into their current program.

Partners

VEGUCATION consists of a consortium of four European schools and four NGOs from Germany, Austria, Belgium, and the Netherlands.
